WASHINGTON:

The fact should not be overlooked that the abstract statements concerning Washington as an educational center are rapidly taking a coucrete form. Both her public schools and private institutions have developed into the first rank. For the higher education there are already here two universities, the Columbian, which broadens the scope and increases the excellence of its work each year, and that vigorous educational infant, the Catholic University. The Methodist University is rapidly taking shape and in a short time the fine site, which erected. These universities may be regarded as a pretty good basis for the claim of garded as a pretty good basis for the claim of any city to be an educational center. But it is evident that this is only the beginning. The directors of the Lutheran Theological Seminary, now located at Gettysburg, have been considering for some time the plan of removing that institution to this city. The only obstacle in the way is the question of finances. They have a fine property now and it is not the intention to abandon it unless the money is available to furnish equally as good accommodations near this city. But still the change is among the possibilities. Then there is the proposition to erect an Episcopal Cathedral here, which is intended to be the center of a system of schools. Bishop Paret is an earnest advocate of this idea, and when a man of his indefatigable energy undertakes anything the chances are that it will be a success if it is within the bounds of human endeavor. As has been announced, a substantial nucleus of the cathedral fund has already been donated and Bishop Paret is looking around for a suitablesite. It will not be surprising if something is heard from Bishop Paret before long, and when he has succeeded the possibilities of the situation have by no means been exhausted. There are other religious denominations yet to be heard from, the Presbyterians for example, and then it must be remembered that the scheme of a National University to be located here is by no means abandoned. When such a shrewd and cool-headed judge of the practicability of a proposition as ex-Senator Edmunds thinks it of sufficient practical movement to advocate in the Senate the founding of a National University at the capital, those who confidently expect the ultimate success of such an enterprise and the final realization of George Washington's project are not to be dismissed as visionary dreamers.

By the light of the official figures THE STAR resumes its studies in breadstuff exports and their bearing on the crop failure in the old world. The total export of breadstuffs for the month ending September 30, 1891, was $31,-462,021; for the corresponding month of last year, $7,199,348. For the three months ending September 30, 1891, the export of breadstuffs was $76,694,822; same period last year, $28,-654,227. The item of wheat will afford the most marked contrast between the period of full and short crops abroad. Thus it is seen that the September wheat export of '91 was $20,388,430; of '90, $1,770,902. America is already, therefore, aiding materially in supply ing the deficit of cereals caused by the European and oriental crop failure. The ability of Europe to purchase will have very much to do with the continuance of the large exports that have characterized the past three months. In any event there will be a considerable increase over last year's exports.

The greatest economy compatible with the removal of the garbage will be necessary to enable the District to pay for this service for the remainder of the year, and as the city through the health office is supposed to be in direct control of this work there should be no occasion to spend much of the should be no occasion to spend much of the small amount of money at the District's disposal upon middlemen between the cart owners and the municipality.

THE FOLLOWING IS CLIPPED FROM A LATE ADVT .:

To the Palais Royal is due the credit of the introduction to Washington of Pigskin or Biarritz Gloves. With all the appearance and twice the durability of kid, it is little wonder that they have won the confidence of Wasbington ladies and hardly less wonder that the market is flooded with imitations. While we do not allege that the genuine Biarritz Mousquetaires may not be had elsewhere in the city, we do assert that they cannot be bought for less than $1.25. It is well known that the Palais Royal's regular price for them is 96c. Fast Black and all the new autumn
